

Fire damages warehouse, apartments in Borough Park Story and photos by Todd Maisel

No injuries were reported when an all-hands fire swept through the roof of a warehouse and spread into adjoining apartments in Borough Park, Brooklyn Sept. 4.

The fire was brought under control in 20 minutes, but by then, numerous apartments had suffered serious damage.

Residents of the orthodox Jewish neighborhood watched as firefighters extinguished the heavy smoke. Hatzolah ambulance corps was also on scene of the fire, but no injuries were found.

The cause of the fire is under investigation by fire marshals.

